(2) Performance – 2014 2Q Review

With expansion on global production facilities, total production and sales volume are increased.

Falling in ASP, due to continuous decrease in raw material price, and rising Won value resulted in decreased sales revenue compared to 2013 2Q.

■ 2014 2Q Review

- YoY

Global tire demand is rebounding and HKT is reinforcing marketing and sales activities. However, revenue is continuously falling mainly due to strong Won and low ASP caused by low raw material price.

- QoQ

Even though more working days in Korea and China brought increased QoQ volume, a reduction in ASP caused by intensified competition and strong Won resulted in negative growth on sales revenue.

(2) Performance – 2014 2Q Review

Due to decreased domestic tire demand and competitors' aggressive marketing activities, HKT slightly lost M/S in Korea market.

In China, oversupply of products in the market intensified price competition and continued decline in raw material price caused passive purchasing pattern of dealers.

(2) Performance – 2014 2Q Review

A turnaround in EU market is observed with a rise in sales, however price competition became more intensified to secure supply.

North America's demand is also rebounded, but active entry of Chinese low segment tires accelerated competition and makers suffered from competitors aggressive price reduction.

(2) Performance – Production

Due to additional capacity expansions, global production increased by 1.6% YoY basis. While, Korea plant's restructurings on machineries and Hungary plant's p-mix changes caused a decline on YoY production capacity 0.6% and 2.0% respectively.

(3) Stability - Raw Material Cost

- NR : Even though an improvements of economic indicators led a rise in rubber price by the end of June, quantity of rubber production level in Indonesia/Thailand is expected to increase and falling in rubber price will continue along with oversupply.
- SR : Asia's BD price is increased due to tight supply and strong demand. A sharp rise in BD price and market price of products will cause a rise in SR price.
